

Mandy Nolan: some home truths about where to find your funny bone.

Listen now Download audio

Tuesday 21 April 2015 9:41AM

According to comedienne Mandy Nolan there is much comedy to be found in the home. What really does happen to those missing socks?

The business of home-making, home building and who you share your house with is the subject of Mandy's new book Home Truths. Aside from performing stand-up, Mandy has been teaching comedy as therapy for over 10 years. She has created a program called Stand-up for Dementia which sees those with dementia creating the comedy.

IMAGE: MANDY NOLAN BELIEVES FUNNY IS ALL AROUND US - YOU JUST HAVE TO LOOK

22 3 0

Like Tweet Share Email

Guests

Mandy Nolan

Stand-up comedian, journalist, artist and author

Publications

TitleHome Truths

AuthorMandy Nolan

PublisherFinch

Credits

ProducerTracey Trompf

PresenterNatasha Mitchell

Comments (3) Add your comment

Jacki :

21 Apr 2015 10:00:59am

I strongly urge you to follow up with a story about her program for using comedy with dementia sufferers. This too resonates very strongly with my life experiences at this time.

Reply

Alert moderator

Lys :

21 Apr 2015 10:37:50am

Agree, Jacki. Might help me with my aged parent at the moment.

Alert moderator

Lys :

21 Apr 2015 10:04:08am

I stumbled across Mandy Nolan's online Soapbox a couple of months ago and she has had me cackling since. I love her sometimes shambolic, insightful, joyous and exuberant rants about anything and everything. Such a tonic. Thanks Mandy :-)

Reply

Alert moderator